Jo Ann Manes, Indiana State President

Greetings, Ladies! I am honored that you have selected me as your state president. By attending the international training for state presidents prior to the Northeast Regional Conference in July, I met other northeast state presidents and gained a great deal from the sessions conducted by Lyn Schmid, international president and Sandra Smith Bull, executive director. All in all, eighteen Indiana members plus three husbands, a friend, and a sister were in attendance.

This biennium, with new officers and committee chairmen, continues with the desire to support chapters, to keep lines of communication open, and to help your chapters thrive and grow. At the upcoming September 12th Executive Board meeting, chapter presidents will have the opportunity to meet with the new officers, committee chairmen, and each other. Each chapter president will get new contact and committee information to take back to her chapter. Please be sure that your chapter president or a designee will be there!

The 4th Annual Fall Arts Retreat (FAR) will be held November 6-7 at Shiloh Park Retreat in Marion. The committee has put together a program of activities encompassing many areas of the arts. Those attending develop a feeling of genuine spiritual fellowship. Information on rooms and the reservation form are on the state website. Registration started July 1 and ends October 6. It will be a great weekend of fun and fellowship.

As one who enjoys traveling, I've traveled many paths in my life. When deciding upon my theme, I looked at the paths we have all traveled and the footprints made along the way. We leave our footprints on everyone we meet. We leave impressions upon students, parents, and colleagues in our professional life. In our personal life, as daughters, mothers, wives, grandmothers, or aunts, we make impressions upon our families and friends. Whether small or mighty these impressions can help, support, console, change, teach, show kindness and have an influence upon others.

What impact can we as DKG members make in our community and schools? When planning for your chapter meetings and pursuing local projects, what impressions are you leaving? I hope as the year goes along, I will hear about your chapter activities. Wishing you much success as we strive forward!

Membership Is Our Future

Evelyn Campbell, Membership Chair

How can members “Make Impressions for the Future”? New members are the future of our Society. They are able to impress on a chapter the enthusiasm and energy of new educators. Look for those impressions when attending meetings, conferences, classes and workshops. They may also be found at public libraries, recreation programs, museums, and social and community events. Be on the lookout for those professional educators who are potential Delta Kappa Gamma members.

When these outstanding women are identified, they can be invited to a meeting and may be informed about our society. Share the projects and opportunities for professional and personal growth. Share the scholarship information. Share the fellowship of your membership, new and old. Ask these key women educators to join your chapter. Channel the enthusiasm of new members – for they are our future!

Strategically Speaking...

Faye Peter, Strategic Action Planning Chair

The Strategic Action Planning Committee has been busy preparing for this biennium. At our committee meeting goals were set, and a discussion of ways to encourage, assist, and monitor Strategic Action Plans for the state and chapters followed. Emails have been sent to the state personnel and committee chairmen alerting them of our availability to offer support. A questionnaire has been sent to the chapter Strategic Action Plan chairmen to update our committee on the progress of their chapters. Two chapters have completed the Strategic Action Plan, and several others have been making great strides toward completion. At the September meeting, our committee plans to share the progress of state committees and chapters. The Strategic Action Plan is a wonderful way to allow AE State and chapters to be a shining light for other states.

Beginnings from the EEC

Jo Jones, EEC Chairman

Truman Capote wrote in Breakfast at Tiffany's, "Aprils have never meant much to me, autumns seem that season of beginning, spring." As teachers we may also have this feeling of what beginning is. As the new EEC chairman, I definitely have this feeling. Fresh from Baltimore where I went through training, I am now ready to begin my duties as the Educational Excellence Committee Chairman.

I shall begin with calling for help from many of you. The 2016 state conference will be held in Terre Haute on April 23 at the Sycamore Banquet Center. In order to make the conference great, we need great presenters for the break-out sessions. We also need informational, attractive posters to be displayed. In this issue of the Hoosier Newsette, you will find an application form to present a session or to display a poster. Because of limited space, only abbreviated forms of the applications have been printed. You can find the application in its entirety on the state website (www.deltakappagamma.org/IN), from your local president, or from me (immsjjj@comcast.net, 812-689-4752, or 927 S. Shook St., Osgood, IN 47037). Help me begin my new biennium with help from you. I know you all are talented in some way. Share with us.

LEADERSHIP MANAGEMENT SEMINAR

Deb Carroll, Beta Tau

Have you ever wished you could attend a conference that was worthwhile and reached out to you where you are? In other words, one that appreciated your wisdom and experience.

The Leadership Management Seminar in Austin, TX does exactly that. I had the privilege of being chosen to attend in 2012, and I am now serving on the International Committee. I'm excited to say we have changed some of the requirements, opening it up to more women. I would love to see a woman (or 2 or 3) from Indiana attend next year; in 2014, Indiana sent no one—and you know Indiana has some TERRIFIC DKG WOMEN!

The cost to you is $500 for the two weeks. (Perhaps your chapter could help you with this expense. International pays for your materials, your room, your meals and all transportation – your flight, etc.) You will have the chance to meet and grow close to approximately 30 other women educators from across the world.

All arrive on Sunday night and get to know each other. Then, on Monday morning, you will start right out with some dynamic speakers. Each day, you will be delighted to learn more about our organization, yourself and the others attending with you. You really become a family with the other women. The seminar lasts two weeks, ending in a graduation ceremony at DKG headquarters. You will get to know many of the personnel who work there also. It really helped me to better understand the 'whole big picture' of our Society.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact me—Deb Carrell, 317.773.2610 (9–11 am or evenings is best) or dcpurdue@sbcglobal.net.

Deadline to apply is December 1, 2015.

To start your application today, go to www.dkg.org/category/committee/golden-gift-fund. You will also need the form completed by your chapter president and a professional reference. No money is needed until you are informed you are chosen.
