Spring has finally arrived – maybe. Testing is over – almost. The end of this very busy year is near. I admire all of you in the classrooms to utmost. I am not sure I could survive all the requirements you have to fulfill and still try to teach. I appreciate the jobs you all do.

I have finally put out some flowers and am anxiously awaiting the blooming of my iris. I have to say it is my favorite time of year: warm days and cool nights, the greening of the earth, the short dark dreary days of winter disappearing and the promise of a renewed beautiful place.

As this biennium comes to an end, I want you to know I have enjoyed being president of this organization for the last 4 years, but it is time for new, younger blood to lead this group. I am very excited to see what our new slate of officers will plan for us in the next biennium. We as members need to support their endeavors by participating in activities and attending meetings. We need to keep our activities meaningful to our group so that our organization is important to the members, so share ideas for programs that would be beneficial to you.

I look forward to seeing you at the Founder's Day meeting and sharing a good meal and visiting with you on Tuesday.

Strawberry Butter

- 1/2 cup butter (1 cube), softened
- 1/2 cup powdered sugar
- 3-4 strawberries
- Chop strawberries until very small. Can be done through a mini food processor for several pulses.
- In a separate bowl, blend together the softened butter and powdered sugar.
- Add about 3/4 of the mashed strawberries and mix to combine. Determine at that point if you'd like to add the remaining strawberries
- Store in a closed jar or container in the fridge. Recipe yields two 4-oz jars of strawberry butter.
